1. The movie Pay It Forward is about a young boy who was named Trevor McKinney. One day, Trevor's social studies teacher gave him a meaningful homework. Trevor was asked to make a plan that could make the world a better place. A good idea came to his mind. He thought that he could help three people and asked for nothing in return. Instead, they had to do something good to three other people in the same way. To make this idea come true, he helped three people. The first man he helped was a homeless guy named Jerry. He gave the man all his money, took him home, helped him quit using drugs and encouraged him to get a new job. And then Jerry repaired Trevor's mother's car in return. Trevor's father treated him and his mother badly, and his mother Arlene had a problem in drinking. Although she was trying to quit the bad habit, she still couldn't make it. So Trevor soon chose his teacher as the next target to "pay it forward" and set up his mother with his social studies teacher, Eugene. Trevor's plan really worked. They got married, and his mom quit drinking successfully. But it was a pity that at the end of the movie, Trevor was killed when he tried to help his friend, Adam, who was bullied by other children.

This kind boy lost his life, but his actions had touched many people deeply. Many people even practiced this idea in their lives and made big better changes. His idea will go on and on and our world will be changed into a better place. Even a little child can do this, why can't we?

2. In the past, I thought the world wouldn't be easy for my little son, Johnny. He can't hear out of either ear; however, he is able to say a few words and make sounds with his mouth. He also knows sign language, for he has taken classes since we knew he'd had a hearing problem.

Well, my feelings changed a lot after we'd gone to the amusement park in our state. We'd had planned the trip for a long time because we had promised him to celebrate his birthday there. Everything there was new and special to us, but we were glad that Johnny felt excited and having a great time. Then, he saw his favorite cartoon character, Minnie and started jumping up and down. He wanted to take a picture with her, so we went over and waited in line. When it was Johnny's turn, we told the character that our son was deaf. She nodded in understanding, and then turned to Johnny and said hello in sign language. She also signed his name and that it was a pleasure to meet him. When Johnny saw that, he was surprised because he had never expected that his favorite character would be able to "talk" to him. We had never seen Johnny so happy before. It was really a wonderful day, and we'll always remember it. What's more, we don't worry as much about Johnny's future as we did.

- (D) Her son got the chance to meet his favorite character.

3. Rita : I've got two tickets to a basketball game. The Lakers vs. the Bulls , front-row seats, next Sunday.

Are you interested in it? You can take Joan to watch the game with you.

Daniel : How did you get the tickets?! They were all sold out several days ago!

Rita : And a table for two at Blue Hill.

Daniel: Blue Hill?! But I called them yesterday and they said they were all booked for the year!

Rita : Now it's yours. You and Joan can have a great dinner there after watching the game.

Daniel : Wait ! This is just not like you. What's the catch?

Rita : Well, you know this Friday I'm leaving for my vacation in Korea, and....

Daniel : And what?

Rita : And I was thinking whether Snow could stay with you next week.

Daniel : The whole week?!

Rita : Please! I can't just leave her in my house.

Daniel : You know I hate that white cat! And she doesn't like me, either .

Rita : Please! You're the last one that can save me.

Daniel : I need to think about it.

Rita : All right, but not too much time.

4. Jeniffer was looking for something about traveling on the Internet when she came across some interesting information on a website.

◎ B&B (Bed and Breakfast)

Some B&Bs look like regular houses, and others look like small hotels. Guests can sleep in real bedrooms, and the owner will provide breakfast. They are usually run by families, so staying there is just like living at home. Some are expensive, and others are cheap. How much money you will pay for this experience is up to you. You can choose the B&B whose price you can afford.

◎ Guesthouse

Other good places to choose are guesthouses, but you have to be aware that they aren't the same everywhere in the world. In some countries, they are similar to hostels and B&Bs. In others, they are more like cheap hotels. Guesthouses don't have full-time workers like hotels do, so you will have to look after yourselves more. If you don't care about that, then these are good choice.

◎ Hostel

Hostels aren't so comfortable as hotels. They have neither swimming pools nor expensive restaurants. On top of that, you have to share a room and a bathroom with other travellers. The good news is that they are much cheaper than hotels, and they are very friendly places. You will meet lots of people and make new friends. Many young people stay at hostels, and now so do older people.

- ( ) 26. Which ad is most likely for a guesthouse?
 (A) The Palace—Everyone here at the Palace cares about your stay with us. We worry about the little things so that you don't have to, and we do that 24 hours a day.
 (B) Welcome to The Top Place—Guests who are traveling alone are welcome to stay here, and so are those who are traveling in groups. You'll have so much fun and get to know people from other countries, and you won't want to leave.
 (C) About Hill Cabin—We have opened up our six-bedroom house to people who want to get away from their everyday lives. It was great for our four children, and it will be for you, too.
 (D) A Note from Red Villa—Thanks for choosing Red Villa. Enjoy a quiet and great time with us. No workers will be around during the day to bother you. 📖 bother 打擾

5. It's a cold winter night in 1912. More than 1,500 people drowned and died in the deep ocean when the ship, Titanic hit an iceberg on its first trip across the Atlantic. At that time, the Titanic was the largest ship that had ever traveled on the sea. It was carrying over 2,200 people, but its lifeboats were not enough for so many people.

Before the Titanic hit the iceberg, the ship had already got six ice warnings on its radio. But it was too late to change direction.

After the miserable accident, the rules of ocean travel have changed. Now there must be enough lifeboats on a ship for everyone. Ships don't go too far north in winter. An accident like the sinking of the Titanic should never happen again.

- (C) The Titanic had changed its direction fast enough before it hit an iceberg.
- (D) Most of the people had got on lifeboats before the Titanic sank

6. When we talk about robots, a Chinese farmer, Wu Yulu (吳玉祿), is the very one that we should know. Though he wasn't well-educated, he has built twenty-six robots without any help. He has made all the robots by himself over the past thirty years.

Why did he want to build the robots? He answered, "When I was eleven, one day I felt very bored and sat at the window watching people walking by. An idea suddenly came to me: Why not build a machine which walks like a real man?"

Building his first robot took him several years. The robot could move in small steps, but couldn't raise its legs. After he had more experience, his designs became better and better. Guess what his robots can do? Don't feel too shocked. Climbing walls, serving water, playing the guitar, and even writing are just a piece of cake for the robots.

Mr. Wu sees all the robots as his kids, and calls them from Wu No.1 to Wu No. 26. Wu No. 25 is his favorite child. Why? Because Wu No. 25 pulls the cart for his "father" around the village every day. It can work for six hours on only one battery. education 教育 human being 人類 step 腳步 serve (給某人) 端上 battery 電池

 (D) The first robot Wu designed could raise its legs and arms.

7. Hello Gentlemen,

I haven't had any chance to sit down in the same space and have a good communication with you guys. I am aware that you are often very busy, and so am I, but there are some things that we really need to discuss. One is our living arrangements, and another is our lack of talking. I'll cover the second one later, and now I'd like to deal with the first one.

Do you still remember that we all agreed to do our part to keep our house clean when we moved in together? You have done nothing at all! And most of the housework has fallen on my shoulders. I have tried many times to talk about this with you, but all I got back were excuses. It's just like that 's not your business. Well, I'm tired of picking up after all of you, so I have set up a schedule for us to follow. It will be changed every week. If you have any problems with this, contact me.
